Joyful News! The Cry is "Still They Come."

WHAT? Why beautiful goods, that will cause a great talk, As our old friend, M. Powers, has just returned from New York--And is receiving at his Store, Southeast corner of the Square, A rich Spring and Summer Stock, which he'll sell ver Embracing clothing, and every article in the furnishing shade. Most fashionably cut, and very neatly pressed And as for handsome vests-he'll sell you one in For the very least possible share of your cash. Nor forgetting old-line Whigs and Democrats, For whom he keeps a variety of suitable hats,

For whem he keeps a variety of suitable hats,
The finest caps—all fancies sure to please—
Both cloth and silk, and new style Japanese;
Handsome shirts, and spiendid cravats and collers,
So to M. Powers don't neglect to bring your delices;
For with myriads we would now dispute.
Who day to say his garments fail to suit;
These most neat and fastidious in taste,
Who oft in badly made clothes their mone;
Who oft in badly made clothes their mone;
Who oft in badly made clothes their mone;
That will compel you for months to wusder and stare.
He keeps clothing to suit the large men and the mail,
And to creft our word, just give him a call.

The common belief that much of the uncertainty of Medical Practice arises from the bad quality of Medical substances, seems to acquire ally confirmation. Through farilty preparation and commercial competition, many preparations formerly regarded as of primary importance are gradually going out of use, while others produce effects and cause accidents that do not properly belong to them as described in the Pharmacopea. New remedies, as suggested and offered for trial are often found so imperfect, and varying so much in chemical character and strength that they are either condemned or received upon faise premises both equally at variance with the proper progress it therapentics; whilst most practitioners daily feel the the Materia Medica is not rich enough either to los its old remedies, or to sscribe opportunities of a quiring new ones. A proper appreciation of the facts warrant the Subscribors in manufacturing as wending none but First Class Standard Preparation with direct reference to the necessities of the profitsion and the requirements of the Pharmacopea.
